Digital resources for your mental health

If you listen to those psychology/therapist types, they'll tell you that the secret to mental health is good relationships, healthy lifestyle, work/life balance and healthy coping strategies (actually they are probably right).

Me, I like to bury myself in the internet (hello Youtube!!). That doesn't mean however there aren't some decent resources online for you to use if you'd like a mental health tune-up or find yourself struggling.

Chat to someone - anytime, anywhere (24 hours/7 days a week)

Feel the need to chat? Both old skool (telephone) and new skool (online chat) options are available.

Lifeline - Telephone and online counselling for people experiencing a personal crisis - https://www.lifeline.org.au/ - 13 11 14

Beyond Blue Support Service - Telephone, online and email counselling for people going through a tough time - https://www.beyondblue.org.au/get-support/get-immediate-support - 1300 22 4636

Mensline - Forums, information, referral service and telephone, online and video counselling for me - https://www.mensline.org.au/ - 1300 78 99 78

Samaritans Crisis Line - Anonymous, non-judgemental, non-religious emotional support and counselling over the phone - http://www.thesamaritans.org.au/ - 135 247

If you are under 25 (you lucky thang!), you can also try:

eheadspace – Online/telephone service supporting young people and their families going through a tough time - https://www.eheadspace.org.au/ - 1800 650 890

Kids Helpline - Phone and chat support for youth (5-25) https://kidshelpline.com.au/teens/ - 1800 55 1800

Do an online mental health or well-being course

Perhaps you'd like to go the next step and sign up to do an online mental health or well-being course. You'll learn specific evidence-based skills that you can apply across your life. Some of these courses are free. Some are at a small cost.
