

NATIONAL RECONCILIATION WEEK 2018

FREE FILM AND LUNCH @ Oasis

The year is 1931. Three aboriginal girls are separated from their mothers and transported to a distant training school, where they are prepared for assimilation into white society by a racist government policy. We follow Gracie, Daisy, and Molly as they escape and make a tenacious journey homewards. The movie illuminates a shameful chapter of Australian history while conveying our universal need for a true and proper home.

Adapted from review by Jeff Shannon <https://www.quotes.net/movies/9256>

Monday 28th May 11:30 for an 11:45 start

Light Lunch, tea and Coffee provided

Discussion led by

No booking required, for more information contact oasis@flinders.edu.au

